

Chief Jonathan Kruger

Chief Jonathan Kruger is a proud member of the Okanagan Nation and Chief of the Penticton Indian Band. He has a background in Natural Resources, Environment and Economic Development and has served his community and nation for 12 years. He served eight years as band councilor and is currently on his second term as Chief. During his first term, the Penticton Indian Band successfully created and has implemented a Community Comprehensive Plan (CCP) and in his current term, he is working with his community to create a successful land use plan. Chief Kruger prides himself and devotes his efforts on maintaining a strong sustainable, cultural community for the children and for the future of all Band members.. His mandate is to develop sustainably and holistically within the traditions of the Okanagan people while creating opportunities for the Penticton Indian Band by fostering positive relationships with municipalities, provincial and federal governments. Chief Kruger enjoys hunting and fishing and spending time on the land in the Okanagan territory.